

JAMBORELLA JOURNAL

WEDNESDAY 6TH JANUARY, 1993

ISSUE FIVE

Cascading records continue to rise on river.

It was a rather chilly start to the morning as the campers rose, ate breakfast and headed for activities. One happy group enjoyed the thrills of wet bottoms and slippery grass as they ice blocked down the hill near the Warden's Office. Others headed for the buses and the many off site activities.

One of these activities is the cascading. Whilst out on Monday getting the latest scoop for the Journal, I ventured down to the reserve to see first hand the extraordinary feats of our daredevil campers.

Kate Wapling (Unit 10) holds record of 15 runs down and around the horseshoe shape course. She also holds the novelty record for the most varied ways of travelling down the river. Lenni Wright has the best score for the Junior Leaders. Debbie Attard carried Cassie the Croc around 11 times. Lynneve Sneddon (Dibbler) from NSW has the leaders record of 14 times.

After 2 or more laps, the participants receive a mars bar to keep them going. As well as cascading, there is chariot racing and a rope bridge.

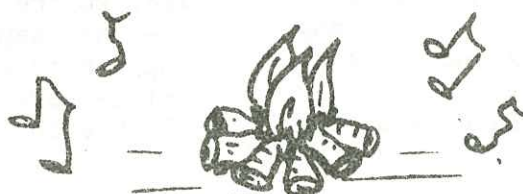

The girls from Unit 10 declared that cascading was "fun and very wet."

Jamborella Campfire

Campfires are a great guiding and scouting tradition. They have been held on many a starry night all over the world. And so it was once again that the campers from Jamborella gathered together to sing and be merry.

The campers sang a wide variety of songs presented by various people. George Welsh (Assistant Camp Chief) sang The Whooping Song. The International campers enjoyed learning the "Pizza Hut" and "Hungry Jacks" songs. Later there was an old favourite, Flea and Love Grows Under. To finish off, the traditional guide song, Canadian Vespers and Kum By Yah. All campers then left Peg's Place to return once again to their various campsites for supper and bed.

NOTICES

A HELPFUL CAMP HINT

We have heard from high authority that 80% of ones's body heat is lost through the head. Due to this, we strongly advise that if one does not have a beanie or a hooded sleeping bag that underpants (worn on the head) will do the job sufficiently.

HELLO FROM THE ROC TENT.

The Rope Prayer.
Lord - Help us to unravel the knots in our lives. Give us the patience to untie each knot and straighten out the rope of our own life. Give each of us a good strong rope of life to reach out and help others in need of support. And help us to accept each knot of sadness or sorrow, knowing that it will strengthen us in the end. Amen.

Have you been to visit ROC yet - we would be delighted if you dropped in to say "Hello" - you may have a prayer you could leave with us. Hope we see you soon.

BIKE STOLEN FROM BROWNIE COTTAGE!

Late Tuesday afternoon, Jessie Handoll, herself already under the watchful eye of the police, arrived back at Brownie Cottage to discover her bike had been stolen. She questioned two Ranger Guides on route to the police station but they were unable to identify the offenders.

The police conducted an extensive search and located the bicycle in the back of Control's pickup. Shirl was driving and was subsequently handcuffed and brought back to Brownie Cottage with the bike.

Jessie by this stage was well armed with a cup of flour and someone fetched a hose to give the suspect a good dousing. However, Shirl escaped from the arms of the law and himself managed to disperse the gathering cloud with a well directed squirt, before being apprehended by the police.

When asked if she was going to press charges, Jessie replied no, to which Shirl suggested that she press "flours" instead.

CASSIE CROC RECOVERED IN DINNER TIME RAID

Yesterday we reported the crocnap of Cassie and with the ransom paid, we all anxiously awaited for her return. Police information led them to Brownie Cottage and armed with a search warrant, they made their way through the house, searching pockets and under beds for the missing croc.

At 7.13pm, they discovered Cassie under the bed of the House QM. She was subsequently questioned in the dining room. She denied all accusations, claiming "I think I've been set up."

Meanwhile, Cassie was returned to her beloved cascading people. Police are continuing their investigations.

POLICE CORRUPTION IN J5 CAMP

The Jamborella Journal has information that links our camp police scouter with the bicycle theft and Cassie's crocnaping. Both suspects claim they have been framed by our officers of the law and are considering pressing charges of police harassment. It is believed that during searches of the vehicle and Brownie Cottage that the incriminating evidence was planted by the police. The police are also reported to be requesting and collecting bribes from campers who require assistance. The Journal has opened an enquiry into these reports of rampant corruption in the J5 station. Anyone with further information on this allegation is to write to the editor. All sources will be protected.
